

The 16 studio apartments that make up Jewish Home Lifecare in the Bronx will redefine hospice care by offering individuals and their families a home away from home without sacrificing the best in medical care. The Metropolitan Jewish Health System, a leader in providing hospice care, is making this happen.

You'll notice the difference the moment you step into the building. Jewish Home Lifecare is set in a comfortable apartment building, vastly different from an institutional hospital setting. Unlike other facilities, these studio apartments will be spacious and private. Patient apartments will include a kitchenette and living area filled with homelike furnishings, creating a natural atmosphere where families can just be families. A place to be together, eat together, even spend the night if they wish.

The facility will be staffed 24 hours a day with the finest board-certified medical and healthcare professionals available. Just as important as medical care is spiritual care. We will provide environments that spiritually and emotionally bring a sense of peace and ease.
